BIOGRAPHY

SABELO NDUMO is an Actor and Screen Acting Lecturer & Drama Teacher

He graduated from AFDA with an Honours Degree (The School of the Creative Economy from 2017 - 2020)

He teaches full time Drama for kids and lectures at AFDA in Johannesburg

After receiving the AFDA Award for Best Lead Actor in a short film and nominated for Best Male Performer in Theatre, Sabelo went on to make his first appearance in two South African Afrikaans television series, "Getroud met Rugby" and "Roer Jou Voete". This was followed by his film debut in Can Themba's short story turned film, "The Suit", where he acted alongside veteran and Tony-Award winning actor John Kani (Black Panther, Lion King) and his son, Atandwa Kani (Long Walk to Freedom, Black Panther). This film would go on to win a SAFTA Award for Best Short Film, Best International short at the Bronze Lens Film Festival in Atlanta, Best of the Festival at the Urbanworld Film Festival, the Audience Choice Award at the Shnit International Short Film Festival, and received a special mention at the L A. Pan-African Film Festival.

Sabelo has had supporting roles in the 2017 SAFTA Film-Made-for-TV movie "Okae Molao" (Winner) and the German kids Series titled "Dandelion" in 2019.

Sabelo also works behind the camera, making his debut as a producer while acting and devising a physical theatre piece titled "2-4pm" in 2016 (under the direction and mentorship of South African award-winning director Prince Lamla). His recent work involves his portrayal of Ukhathalo, the antagonist in a 2020 Student Academy Award Winning and BAFTA L.A. nominated film titled "Umama" (directed by NYU graduate, Talia Smith)
